The culmination of three years effort, planning, and dreaming is the Basi-Ruti Club. The attractively designed hotel and club combination opened Feb. 15. Over 600 guests attended the opening that had in its midst Lt. Gov. and Mrs. L. C. Kwartz, island deputies, consular corps members, government officials and representatives of industry and commerce.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Maurice Neme. He introduced his father, C. J. Neme, who was responsible for the building of the club. Mr. Neme greeted his guests and expressed the hope that Basi-Ruti would assist in developing tourist interest in Aruba. J. van der Schoot, secretary of the club, outlined the development of the plan stating that originally there were only 24 members; now there are 500.

Lt. Gov. Kwartz also acknowledged Mr. Neme's efforts stating that he hoped the resort would attract tourists. He further stated that Mr. Neme would always be considered a pioneer in the field of tourist development.

Besides a Costa Rican orchestra, Mr. Neme also brought in flamenco dancers, a novelty dancer, a limbo dancer and a magician. Of the entire troupe the artist capturing the most attention was Roslyn Croney of Grenada when she danced under a bar just 18 inches off the floor.

OVERLOOKING THE blue Caribbean is the large patio in the rear of the new club. On dance nights the patio is used for dancing as shown.
